

INTERNATIONAL RESEARCH INTERDISCIPLINARY SCHOOL IRIS KYRGYZSTAN 2018

organized by Center for Postgraduate Education and Research, SRI of Heart Surgery and Organ Transplantation

under the patronage of the Journal of Electrocardiology, Heart Vessels and Transplantation, Central Asian Medical Journal, Cardio-Vascular System.

June 11 – 16, 2018, CHOLPON-ATA, ISSIK-KUL, KYRGYZSTAN

International Research Interdisciplinary School at the shore of the pearl of Kyrgyzstan – Issyk-Kul lake. The 5-day workshop program created at the Duke University, Durham, USA, is the training program on how to prepare a scientific project and how to work in multidisciplinary international team. The language of school is English. The faculty is an international team of IRIS faculty and editors of IRIS journals. Participants eligible to apply are students, PhD students, physicians, specialists and junior faculty of universities, seeking to attain their research skills. The specialties might include the medical specialties and other relevant to medicine areas, fundamental and laboratory science, public health, biomedical engineering, computer engineering, economics and judiciary having the research interests in broad spectrum of healthcare issues. The participation fee of 200 Euros includes teaching materials, accommodation and meals, but do not cover the travel expenses.

Contacts:

Taalai Z. Kudaiberdiev

Bishkek, Togolok-Moldo str. 3/1, Research Institute of Cardiac Surgery and Organ Transplantation, phone: +996709696927, e-mail: tkudaiberdiev@gmail.com

Ljuba Bacharova
e-mail: bacharova@ilc.sk